Tips for Camping With Your Dog

There are tons of pet-friendly campgrounds across North America so if you're ready to take to the trails or relax under the stars with your pup this season, here are our top tips.

Plan ahead

A little online research will help you identify pet-friendly campgrounds, parks, and trails. You can also look up the rules and requirements for pet owners.

Packing

Think about your planned activities, and about your dog's needs and preferences. Then create your camping checklist so you don't forget any important items such as a pet-friendly first-aid kit.

Be prepared

Make sure your contact information is up-to-date for your dog's microchip. We also recommend having a list of local veterinarians on hand in case you have an emergency with your pup.

Brush up on campsite Pet Etiquette

Being respectful and courteous to your fellow campers is a must. Remember you shouldn't leave your pet alone, you should pick up after them, and overall be sure to follow the rules of the campsite.

Basic training

Dogs should know basic commands and it is especially important that they reliably come back to you on command. This will keep them off your neighboring campers' site and keep everyone happy!

Have fun

Camping is a great way to bond with your pup, while relaxing and having fun. Snuggle up, cook some tasty treats over the campfire, and enjoy the outdoors.
